DETAILS

Reason for Legislation

James Stubbendick, the director of the University of Nebraska's Center for Great Plains Studies, requests a permit to place a private work of art in the public right of way in the sidewalk planting bed on the southwest corner of 12th and Q Streets.

Discussion (Including Relationship to other Council Actions)

On June 28, 1993, Council approved a Works of Art ordinance 14.56 both to encourage and support development of the arts in the City and to regulate the placement, appearance, maintenance and insurance of works of art on city property and public rights-of-way

The Center for Great Plains Studies seeks City permission to use a portion of the planter bed on the north side of its building at 12th and Q Streets as a placement site for this life sized bronze sculpture by artist Veryl Goodnight, which depicts a female pioneer. The life sized sculpture is 60 by 50 by 26 inches.

The Center would like to unveil this sculpture in Spring 2004. Monthly maintenance of the sculpture will be performed by the staff of the Great Plains Center.

The sculpture will complement the proposed placement of the Lewis and Clark sculpture that the Council approved last year which will be placed on the bed just to the south of this proposed location.

This project will support the 12th Street Arts Corridor project and will help integrate the University's art collection with public art along 12th Street.
